Where to look for housing

Hi everyone, I'm an incoming Masters student starting in the fall. I was accepted after the housing application opened and it looks like I won't be getting on campus or ACC housing.

I looked at Facebook groups, but the listings I see are very scammy. UCI's off campus housing portal has a few options but the people I talked to are looking for tenants immediately. I won't be moving to Irvine until September (out of state student).

Does anyone have any advice on where to find housing? Is it possible to find it in advance or will I have more luck looking in August?

try switching your grad housing application to early august or middle of august. i also accepted after the housing application opened two years ago and ended up getting an offer at the beginning of august for an august 14th starting lease. most students try to get September leases so you might not get one if you keep September bc 1st priority is guaranteed housing people.

Housing near UCI is tough, especially for out-of-state grad students. The scammy Facebook listings don't help either.

I would check out UniShack since they've been getting more Irvine listings, and their verification cuts down on scams. It's definitely worth checking often, especially since August is when a lot of spots open up so students drop out or change plans last minute.

You could also try asking around in UCI housing groups to see if anyone's moving out soon. Craigslist still might have legit listings too, but I just highly recommend checking out UniShack or other apartment sites.

Good luck!
