Hello!

Okay so I would recommend looking at the shuttle stop locations and line departures. They don't run weekends so you might have to walk on campus if you have any on-campus weekend plans! There also should be places to lock your scooter/bike if you have that, but I have heard of ppl stealing at ACC still so be careful. If you plan to bring a car, you will have to pay a SEPARATE parking fee to park at YOUR ACC apartment parking lot. Guests also have to pay for parking since there are the UCI ticketing ppl are very serious abt their jobs. I would also look at the amenities each community has to offer: basketball courts, gym, swimming pool, grill, study rooms, game rooms, etc. Some apartments will have virtual tours of the general layout of the amenities and floorplan.

to live in, this reddit post should be helpful in getting a geographical idea! There seems to be a garage structure between the two. I also think the doors at PV are locked so you would need to be let in by a staff member or resident. (IDK tho, I was outside for only 5 mins.)

Here are also the virtual Google floorplan tour/s for each 4B situation at PV I:

Personally I choose VDC 4B2B and I'm enjoying it here. It is the furthest away from campus but it's close to the ARC and the A Line shuttle to get to school is ~10 minutes, ~20 coming back depending on how many stops we stop at. Fair warning that they do seem to stall if the bus drivers accidentally are at the same stop at the same time so recommend going ~30 mins earlier than your class start time. The wifi is decent, I haven't had any problems but my roommates been having problems with doing an online meeting study. The bathrooms are nice, there are side mirrors that can open up and be cabinets for your toothbrush and other stuff. You do need to get your own shower curtain (definitely talk with your roommates about this!). I forgot to mention the beds are XL Full size beds so you will need queen sized sheets!

Edit: I will also say there will be an option of 3 communities, 2 floorplans each that you can put down! However, there should be a waitlist for each community with residents, students, and incoming students applying. Incoming students and some continuing residents only have 2 years of guaranteed housing if they had submitted it in their first year.

Oh, there utility bill is included with the rent at VDC and VDCN, but one load of laundry (wash & dry) is like $4. I know the utility bill depends on usage but it can range from $40-70 if I remember correctly. Your roomies and you will need to create an account to pay your bills. I also like VDC since it has individual liability, so I won't be penalized unless damage was found in the common space and no one owns up to it.

If u have a car, vdc is prob best cos theres close and a lot of parking, pv parking is hit or miss you'll be able to find spots during the day but after 5pm you'll have to park very far, if u don't mind the walk it'll be fine, camino parking is prob the worst out of the 3 you park at a separate structure (i think its called ecps) and its the furthest, if you don't have a car or don't care ab the walk at all vdc has the biggest rooms & electricity is covered but it is older/less modern camino has in unit washer & dryer ok sized rooms is overall bigger since its a townhome not an apartment pv the most modern, rooms r tiny af & elevator is always broken

so tldr,

pick vdc if u have a car and don't care to walk 15+ mins or want a big room/electricity covered pick pv if you care ab how modern your space is aesthetically pick camino if you want an in unit washer & biggest house space in general also pv 1 & pv 2 are generally the same except pv1 is all connected so 1 giant building, closer to community center (where the mailroom is) & has bigger beds, pv2 was built
